

Cotemar receives recognition for Workplace Health and Wellness and the 2020 Healthy Organization Award

September 8, 2021

Mexico City, Mexico.- For the second consecutive year, Cotemar has received Recognition for Workplace Health and Wellness (RESR, Spanish acronym)® from the Workplace Wellness Council (CESyB, Spanish acronym), an organization that for the past 11 years, has promoted the advancement of workplace health and wellness.

Cotemar was also granted the 2020 Healthy Organization Award, (ORS®), Spanish acronym) for achieving the stage 5, “Modeling Behavior” phase, (one stage higher than in 2020). The ORS is a program that comprises eight stages, each of which represents a different phase in the process to develop a strategy that will prevent illnesses and promote a healthy environment in the workplace.

“For Cotemar, receiving the ORS for the stage 5, Modeling Behavior phase means that we have worked hard to establish stages regarding conduct and attendance measurement, and to improve the mental health of our employees. For us, receiving this award is extremely valuable, especially this past year when the pandemic gave rise to unusual challenges on a physical and emotional level for our employees and our community,” said an internal source of Cotemar.

Cotemar is permanently committed to the wellbeing of its people, and it fulfills this commitment by promoting a healthy and safe work environment.
